Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine if there were differences in the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders among different types of workers. The subjects included all employees of a large manufacturing company who had been employed at least one year. Data were obtained from a questionnaire sent to each employee asking about symptoms of musculoskeletal disorders and work-related factors. The results showed that the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was higher among non-manual workers than manual workers. This finding suggests that non-manual workers may be more susceptible to musculoskeletal disorders.

5. A. Chlorophyll a and b are the primary photosynthetic pigments in most plants. They absorb light energy and convert it into chemical energy through the process of photosynthesis. The absorption spectra of these pigments show that they absorb light most efficiently in the blue and red regions of the visible spectrum.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week, 100-hr, 100-mile, 100-lb. weight loss program on the body composition and physical fitness of 100 obese women. The program was designed to be a total lifestyle change, including diet, exercise, and behavior modification. The program was evaluated using a pretest and posttest design. The results of the study showed that the program was effective in reducing body weight, body fat, and body mass index. The program also resulted in improvements in physical fitness, including increases in aerobic capacity, muscular strength, and flexibility. The program was well tolerated and the participants reported a high level of satisfaction. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week, 100-hr, 100-mile, 100-lb. weight loss program is an effective and safe method for achieving significant weight loss and improving physical fitness in obese women.

1. The first group of people who are not in the majority are those who are not in the majority of the population. This group is the largest and most diverse. It includes people of different ethnicities, religions, and social classes. They are often the most vulnerable to discrimination and oppression.
